

Lockheed has been one of American's largest corporations and most important defense contractors from World War II to the present day (since 1995 as part of Lockheed Martin Aeronautics Company). During the postwar era, its executives enacted complicated business responses to black demands for equality. Based on the papers of a personnel executive, the memoir of an African American employee, interviews, and company publications, this narrative history offers a unique inside perspective on the evolution of equal employment and affirmative action policies at Lockheed Aircraft's massive Georgia plant from the early 1950s through the early 1980s. Randall L. Patton provides a rare, perhaps unique, account of African American struggle and management response, set within the context of the regional and national struggles for civil rights. The book describes the complex interplay of black protest, federal policy, and management action in a crucial space in the national economy and within the South, contributing to business history, policy history, labor history, and civil rights history.

with The Working Journalists (Conditions of Service) and Miscellaneous Provisions Rules, 1957 [Amended by the Ease of Compliance to Maintain Registers under various Labour Laws Rules, 2017 vide Notification No. G.S.R. 154(E), dt. 21-02-2017] The Working Journalists and Other Newspaper Employees Tribunal Rules, 1979 The Ease of Compliance to Maintain Registers under various Labour Laws Rules, 2017 Statement of Objects and Reasons Notes with Free Access to Full Text of Judgements on Net and Mobile App

Copyright code : 7de8f0ee11917254eef3fa529ff87ba1