1868-1927 : de l'invention de l'impressionnisme à la traversée de l'Atlantique par Lindbergh, un Normand établi à Étretat entreprend le récit de sa vie. Orphelin de mère, jamais reconnu par son père, il s'est installé chez son oncle, dans la splendeur des falaises, après avoir été blessé lors de la sanglante aventure coloniale en Algérie.

Ce livre présente la synthèse de vingt années de recherches, menées en France et en Algérie, sur l'émigration et l'immigration, deux phénomènes qui sont aussi indissociables que le recto et le verso de la même feuille et pourtant très différents en apparence, au point qu'on croit pouvoir comprendre l'un sans connaître l'autre.

Cet ouvrage s'adresse aux étudiants, doctorants, enseignants, formateurs, chercheurs et professionnels impliqués dans l'enseignement du français en tant que langue étrangère (FLE) et plus particulièrement en tant que langue seconde (FLS), en France et à l'étranger. Il vise à accompagner la formation initiale et continue, tout en offrant matière à réflexion aux passionnés de la langue française et de sa diffusion. Il s'organise en chapitres, composés par des spécialistes du champ qui abordent la francophonie dans ses dimensions politiques, éducatives, didactiques et psycholinguistiques, et ses interrelations avec la didactique. La première partie permet d'appréhender la francophonie dans ses débats houleux passés et actuels, linguistiquement, politiquement mais aussi de façon contextualisée (avec des exemples analysés pour l'Algérie, la France, le Maroc, la Tunisie, notamment). La seconde partie prend la forme d'un triptyque apprentissage, enseignement et formation. A travers son prisme personnel, chaque auteur a été invité à restituer un pan de ses axes de recherches, en se référant aux travaux de Jean-Pierre Cuq, qui a marqué la didactique du

The autobiography of a berber women

An award-winning novel powerfully re-imagines a childhood in the spotlight of history, politics, and destiny. Montreal 1976. A fourteen-year-old girl steps out onto the floor of the Montreal Forum and into history. Twenty seconds on uneven bars is all it takes for Nadia Comaneci, the slight, unsmiling child from Communist Romania, to etch herself into the collective memory. The electronic scoreboard, astonishing spectators with what has happened, shows 1.0. The judges have awarded an unprecedented perfect ten, the first in Olympic gymnastics, though the scoreboard is unable to register anything higher than 9.9. In The Little Communist Who Never Smiled, Lola Lafon tells the story of Comaneci's journey from growing up in rural Romania to her eventual defection to the United States in 1989. Adored by young girls in the west and appropriated as a political emblem by the Ceausescu regime, Comaneci's life was scrutinized wherever she went. Lafon's fictionalized account shows how a single athletic event mesmerizes the world and reverberates across nations.

The celebrated and highly versatile writer Leïla Sebbar was born in French colonial Algeria but has lived nearly her entire adult life in France, where she is recognized as a major voice on the penetrating effects of colonialism in contemporary society. The dramatic contrast between her past and present is the subject of the nine autobiographical essays collected in this volume. Written between 1978 and 2006, they trace a journey that began in Aflou, Algeria, where her father ran a schoolhouse, and continued to France, where Sebbar traveled, alone, as a graduate student before eventually realizing her powerful creative vision. The pieces collected in this book capture an array of experiences, sensations, and sentiments surrounding the French colonial presence in Algeria and offer an intimate and prismatic reflection on Sebbar's bicultural upbringing as the child of an Algerian father and French mother. Sebbar paints an unflinching portrait of her original disconnection from her father's Arabic language and culture, depicting her struggle to revive a cultural heritage that her family had deliberately obscured and to convey the vibrant yet muted Arabic of her father and of Algeria. Looking back from numerous vantage points throughout her life, she presents the complicated and divisive dynamics of being raised "between two shores"--the colonized and the colonizer. African Literature Translated from French

Earthen architecture constitutes one of the most diverse forms of cultural heritage and one of the most challenging to preserve. It dates from all periods and is found on all continents but is particularly prevalent in Africa, where it has been a building tradition for centuries. Sites range from ancestral cities in Mali to the palaces of Abomey in Benin, from monuments and mosques in Iran and Buddhist temples on the Silk Road to Spanish missions in California. This volume's sixty-four papers address such themes as earthen architecture in Mali, the conservation of living sites, local knowledge systems and intangible aspects, seismic and other natural forces, the conservation and management of archaeological sites, research advances, and training.

The result is a study that underscores how Baudelaire's legacy continues to energize literary engagements with the violence of modernity.

In this stunning novel, Assia Djebar intertwines the history of her native Algeria with episodes from the life of a young girl in a story stretching from the French conquest in 1830 to the War of Liberation of the 1950s. The girl, growing up in the old Roman coastal town of Cherchel, sees her life in contrast to that of a neighboring French family, and yearns for more than law and tradition allow her to experience. Headstrong and passionate, she escapes from the cloistered life of her family to join her brother in the maquis' fight against French domination. Djébar's exceptional descriptive powers bring to life the experiences of girls and women caught up in the dual struggle for independence - both their own and Algeria's.

A fascinating portrait of life with the Black Panthers in Algiers: a story of liberation and radical politics Following the Algerian war for independence and the defeat of France in 1962, Algiers became the liberation capital of the Third World. Elaine Mokhtefi, a young American woman immersed in the struggle and working with leaders of the Algerian Revolution, found a home here. A journalist and translator, she lived among guerrillas, revolutionaries, exiles, and visionaries, witnessing historical political formations and present at the filming of The Battle of Algiers. Mokhtefi crossed paths with some of the era's brightest stars: Frantz Fanon, Stokely Carmichael, Timothy Leary, Ahmed Ben Bella, Jomo Kenyatta, and Eldridge Cleaver. She was instrumental in the establishment of the International Section of the Black Panther Party in Algiers and close at hand as the group became involved in intrigue, murder, and international hijackings. She traveled with the Panthers and organized Cleaver's clandestine departure for France. Algiers, Third World Capital is an unforgettable story of an era of passion and promise.
