The Grass is Singing, her 1950 debut of South African politics and race, immediately established her name, but it was the distinctly post-modern The Golden Notebook of 1962 that marked Lessing ' s genius. Anna is a writer, author of one very successful novel, who now keeps four notebooks. In one, with a black cover, she reviews the African experience of her earlier years. In a red one she records her political life, her disillusionment with communism. In a yellow one she writes a novel in which the heroine relives part of her own experience. And in a blue one she keeps a personal diary. Finally, in love with an American writer and threatened with insanity, Anna resolves to bring the threads of all four books together in a golden notebook. Doris Lessing's best-known and most influential novel, The Golden Notebook retains its extraordinary power and relevance decades after its initial publication.

" A keen sociological eye for class and ideology; an understanding of the contradictory impulses of the human heart: an ability to conjure a place, a mood and a time through seemingly matter-of-fact descriptions.
